The school will be closed Monday, November 11th for Remembrance Day. Classes resume November 12th at 8:30am – School Day 6.

Stargazing Night with Astronomy 31G – November 14th, 7pm

On Thursday, November 14th Earth will be passing through a comet’s debris field, an event producing about 10 visible meteors an hour. Our Astronomy class invites everyone to join them in the WKC field to view at 7pm for this event as well as see Jupiter, Uranus, and Saturn, and if we are lucky, T-Coronae Borealis will display its expected nova event (explosion) making it as bright as the north star. Students will guide us on a constellation tour of the November sky. We ask that you dress warmly, bring a chair if you want, and binoculars if you have them. This is a weather dependent event and so please make sure to check our school calendars for updates!
